A Statement is attached herewith showing the number of days for which he has toured during each month of the Official year 1918-19. It will be seen therefrom that he has toured in all for 160 days. Of the 21 days spent by him in Coorg & Sirsi & attending the Conference of Registrars is deducted the number of days devoted to touring in the State which is 139. Under the rules the Registrar is required to tour in all 180 days. The only Registrar that used to come anywhere near this limit is Mr. Ranganadhayya. The inadequacy of touring in the previous years is referred

As Mr Ray a Rao has been nine in charge for about a year and a half only it is rather difficult to compare his work with that of his predecessors.

The number of societies of all kinds when he took charge was about 1097. The number now is about ~~1191~~ 1191

The statement given in para 12 of the Admn Report of Co-operative Societies gives the rate of increase of these Societies from the year 1905-06. In the last four years the annual growth is about 108 to 150 new Societies. This rate has been maintained but the development cannot be said to be to any extent

The following comparative statement shows the general progress of the movement for the last 5 years

	1914-15	1915-16	1916-17	1917-18	1918-19
Total number of societies (all kinds)	725	800	974	1097	1191 (till the beginning of May)
Membership	53,267	64,857	74,906	81,168	86,709 (till the beginning of May)
~~Total working capital~~	~~16,36,405~~	~~20,24,~~	~~25,~~	~~29,~~	~~50~~

Reserve fund	96,665	1,59,626	2,34,740	3,30,539	460-0[illegible] (till the beginning of May)

These figures show that the normal rate of progress in has been maintained for the last eighteen months. The work to be done at present consists mostly of consolidation of the credit societies already started in large numbers and development of new forms of co-operation. As regards the former the fact that there has been a steady increase in the transactions and working capital of the reserve fund has been substantially strengthened since that same attention has been paid to the subject but it must be admitted that having regard to the practically unlimited field for further increasing the transactions of the societies no special credit is due to the Department for these results.

In the case of cooperative other forms than credit there is no doubt a great deal of special work has been done. The Registrar has prepared a detailed scheme for the development of agricultural and industrial cooperation. A special scheme for the improvement of weavers cooperative societies has been sanctioned. The cooperative societies have been able to do some substantial work in selling at cheap rates food-grains. To view weavers societies and societies for supplying agricultural implements

The Registrar has shown same initiative in the following matters.

(c) Survey of economic conditions of members of Co-operative Societies.

BRIEF REPORT OF WORK DONE BY THE CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT DURING THE YEAR 1918-19.

BRIEF REPORT OF WORK DONE BY THE CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT DURING THE YEAR 1918-19.

Re-organization of the Department.—During the year under review, the Co-operative Department was re-organized by the Government.

2. The State has been divided into three Co-operative Circles. Two of them are in charge of the two Assistant Registrars and the third in that of the Registrar who exercises general supervision over the other two. The Registrar is also in direct charge of agricultural, industrial and other kinds of co-operation.

3. Till recently no distinction was made in the work of the several Inspectors. Each Inspector was placed in charge of about 40 societies and all the work connected with inspection, audit, supervision and organization had to be attended to by him. This led to a comparative neglect of some items of work particularly audit and to insufficient attention being paid to branches of co-operation other than credit. For the past four months, a staff of 7 Inspectors has been told off for purely audit work. Special Inspectors have been deputed for agricultural, industrial and other kinds of co-operation, and the remaining Inspectors are left free for inspection and organization. In the last branch of work, they are assisted, as before, by a large number of non-official workers. The scheme has been in force for only four months and it is too early to say definitely whether the change is distinctly for the better.

4. General Progress.—The following tabular statement summarises the general progress of the movement :—

	1917-18	1918-19 (up to date)
	Rs.	Rs.
(1) Number of societies...	1,097	1,191
(2) Number of members.	81,168	86.700
(3) Working Capital ...	₹ 65,04,632	₹ 69,58,500
(4) Total transactions ...	₹ 2,23,89,334	2,50,82,400
(5) Reserve Fund ...	3,30,539	4,60,000

The increase in the number of societies is poor. This was because attention was devoted as during the previous year mainly to consolidation of existing societies. The bad seasonal conditions which prevailed during the year and the scare and dislocation of work caused by the Influenza Epidemic had also the effect of preventing a rapid expansion of the movement.

5. The following statement shows the varieties of societies in Mysore :—

	1918-19 (up to date)
Primary non-agricultural credit societies ...	109
Primary agricultural credit societies ...	955
Central Banks, Unions, etc.	19
Societies for manure supply	4
Societies for supplying agricultural implements ...	9
Societies for Lift-irrigation	2
Societies for sandalwood carvers	2
Societies for jewellers	1
Societies for ivory inlayers	1
Societies for toy makers	1
Societies for rice-hulling and jaggory making ...	10
Societies for weavers and Sericulturists ...	36
Co-operative Stores	37
Co-operative Grain Banks	43
Co-operative House Building Societies ...	5
Societies for backward classes	16

6. It will be noticed that the bulk of our societies are credit institutions. But special efforts are being made to develop agricultural and industrial co-operation on a fairly large scale. A scheme outlining the lines on which it was proposed to proceed was drawn up for the Economic Conference and it was approved by the Agricultural and the Industries and Commerce Committees. The work was taken in hand rather late in the year and the progress achieved has therefore been small.

1250

7. Agricultural Co-operation.—A Senior Inspector of Co-operative Societies works directly under the Registrar in connection with agricultural co-operation. His work is mainly to organize societies for the supply of seed, manure and implements. Wherever conditions are favourable, it is also proposed to start societies for joint sale of produce. Nine supply societies were started and 20 of the existing credit societies were induced to undertake this work on a systematic scale. Half a dozen are still under investigation. The work done by these societies so far consists in their supplying their members with about 50 Kolar Mission and 2 Verity ploughs, 16 cultivators, 3 disc harrows, 3 stone rollers, and about a dozen local plough shares. These implements have been either sold outright to the members or the societies own them and levy a small charge for their use by the members. They have also distributed to their members about 20 pallas of ragi, 12 pallas of paddy, 10 pallas of jolam, 24 seers of cotton and 5 maunds of potato seeds. A small quantity of bone manure and about 3,000 maunds of honge hindi were also supplied by the societies to their members. It is probable that before the end of the official year, the work done in these directions will have doubled. A society for the sale of areca and another for the sale of copra are under investigation.

8. A practical difficulty which I have experienced in this connection is that a society which applies to the Agricultural Department for implements, seeds, or manure, cannot get them except for cash payment or on three months' credit. The societies are as a rule unable to collect enough funds to make prompt payment and have therefore to give their orders in instalments. To avoid this inconvenience, it appears desirable to introduce a long term hire-purchase system or a system of advances by Government to these societies. The matter is under consideration. The transfer of the services of a competent Demonstrator from the Agricultural to this Department would considerably help our efforts in this direction.

9. Industrial Co-operation.—The development of industrial co-operation in the State is making but slow progress and, except as regards the weaving industry, the results achieved are not very substantial. A Senior Inspector has been placed on special duty in this connection and strenuous efforts are being made to develop this line of work.

10. From the statement given in paragraph 5 above it will be noticed that there are 6 different kinds of Industrial Societies, viz., two Sandalwood Carvers' Societies, one Jewellers' Society, a Toy-makers' Society, ten Rice-hulling or jaggory boiling Societies, and 36 Weavers' Societies including those for Sericulturists. The Sandalwood Carvers' Societies are situated at Sagar and at Sorab. The Sorab Society is a new institution and has just started work. The older society at Sagar may be considered to be doing some useful work though its management requires and will receive attention. The Government have granted special concessions to it in respect of the supply of sandalwood and the Director of Industries and Commerce has kindly arranged to find a sale for the articles made by the society. The society exhibited some articles at the last Dasara Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition and won a gold medal. The Jewellers' and the Toy Makers' Societies are progressing. Both these won medals at the last exhibition.

11. It is unfortunate that the Jaggory-boiling

Societies have not so far proved a success. Four of them were started at different times mainly at the instance of the local officers or at the instance of the officers of the Department of Industries and Commerce. Two did not begin work at all, one worked for a season and the other for a little over two years. The Government gave as a loan to the societies practically the whole of the amount required for the plant and the buildings. The amount so advanced was placed at the disposal of the Director of Industries and Commerce who installed the engine and the machinery and who also arranged to work the mill and the engine until such time as the members could do so themselves. All that the members had to do was to supply the mill with the requisite quantity of sugar-cane. But the members were so apathetic, the sugar-cane supplied was so poor in quantity and so uncertain in quality and the internal difference between the several members proved so great an obstacle to smooth working, that these societies never had a chance of showing what they could do. They have therefore been wound up and the machinery and plant taken in full or part repayment of the loans.

12. Our experience of Rice Mills has been somewhat less discouraging. There really was one mill that at Bannur working during the year. A second one has been recently started at Channarayapatna but a dispute regarding the ownership of a tamarind tree of trifling value is preventing it from beginning its work!

13. The history of the Bannur Rice Mill came very near being practically a repetition of that of the Jaggory Societies. The arrangement made for its working was the same as that for the working of Jaggory Societies and it produced the same results. The members were indifferent, the supply of paddy was insufficient and uncertain and satisfactory work could not be done. Circumstances were so unpromising that at the instance of the Director of Industries and Commerce the Industries and Commerce Committee suggested to the Government that the Bannur Rice Mill may be wound up and the Government accordingly ordered its liquidation. About six months ago, however, it looked as if there were some chances of working it satisfactorily. I therefore took up the matter, appointed a Sub-Committee to attend to the supply of paddy, the daily working of the mill, the collection of milling charges and the sale of rice and paddy husk. The working of the mill was a very difficult matter. The Sub-Committee existed only in name and the department had to do all the work. I had to go to Bannur three or four times in the course of three months and an Inspector of Co-operative Societies had to be stationed there for 15 to 20 days in the month. But the mill worked for four months and made a profit of well over Rs. 1,000. I have had to stop the mill recently on account of the impossibility of getting paddy in the neighbourhood of Bannur. I have told the members that it is impossible for the department to continue to work the mill for them and that now that they are satisfied that the mill is a profitable concern, they should take a greater share in the management, and, that, if they do not, the society will be liquidated. The matter is under consideration.

14. Investigations are in progress with regard to the possibility of starting societies for chucklers, brass workers, carpenters, jatkawallas (for the supply of jutkas and horses), basket makers and the like and it is hoped that, as a result of the efforts made, some societies will come into existence at an early date.

15. Attempts were made during the year to start dairies and cattle insurance societies but the results have not been encouraging.

16. Weavers' Societies.—With regard to weavers, the preliminaries as to the lines of work which should be adopted to improve their condition have been more are less settled. The year was bad for the hand loom weavers and the situation at one time was so critical that the Government not merely advanced large sums of money to two Weavers' Societies in Bangalore, but they also appointed a Committee, presided over by Mr. A. Chatterton, to investigate their condition and suggest suitable measures of relief. One of the main recommendations of this Committee was that Co-operative Weavers' Societies supplying their members with yarn, dye stuffs and other raw material, providing them with improved looms and patterns and arranging for the marketing of the goods should be tried on a large scale. The Government approved of this recommendation. They also placed a sum of Rs. 50,000 at the disposal of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies for the financing of Weavers' Societies. Work has been started on these lines already. Twenty Weavers' Societies which were undertaking merely credit operations have had their constitution altered suitably and ten societies on new lines have been formed. An Inspector has been placed in charge of them, but as he has no knowledge or experience of the weaving industry, a proposal has been submitted to the Government for the appointment of a Special Inspector for Weavers' Societies and orders are awaited.

17. Societies for Depressed Classes.—The formation of Co-operative Societies for the backward classes is receiving earnest attention. There are sixteen of them and more could have been started but for the difficulty of securing their proper management.

18. It is unnecessary to say much with regard to Grain Banks and House Building Societies. Grain Banks increased from 28 to 43 and there are indications that the work of House Building Societies is likely to increase on a large scale in the near future.

19. Stores.—Co-operative Stores probably did more work and proved their usefulness more decidedly during the year under review than during any previous year. Early in the beginning of the official year, articles like rice, ragi, fuel and kerosine oil were available but the prices were very high. Societies were advised to stock these articles and sell them to the members. The suggestion was eagerly taken up and considerable relief was thus afforded. At one time, rice which could not be had in the Bangalore market under Rs. 32 a palla was being sold by the Bangalore City Co-operative Society at about Rs. 25. Conditions were more or less the same in the other societies dealing in provisions. But about November, it became difficult for the societies to get these articles and, soon after, quite impossible. Since February last, however, they are in a position to obtain rice through the Food Controller and have resumed their normal transactions with regard to that commodity. But the supply of kerosine oil is a more difficult matter and over 100 to 150 societies which wish to deal in it are unable to do so as no oil is available.

20. Co-operation in the Malnad.—The development of co-operation in the malnad is receiving attention. The number of societies increased from 173 to 191. The rate of progress may appear slow, but the characteristic features of the malnad area and the malnad population render a more rapid development impossible except with a large and undue increase in staff. The location of the office of an Assistant Registrar at Shimoga who will be in charge of the Shimoga and the Kadur Districts will probably facilitate a slightly more rapid rate of progress.

21. The peculiar difficulties under which the malnad raiyat is labouring have received considerable attention during the past two or three years and the opinion is fairly generally held that the work done by Co-operative Societies requires to be supplemented by the provision of facilities for long term mortgage credit. The subject has been studied in some detail and a scheme has been submitted to Government. It is likely that the question is coming up for consideration before this Conference.

22. Survey of Economic Condition.—The survey of the economic condition of the members of Co-operative Societies which was begun some time ago is being continued. The investigation of about 200 societies has been completed. The results appear to indicate that the indebtedness of the members as a whole has not materially diminished, that about half of it has been transferred from the private money-lender to the societies and that the assets of the members have increased by about 17·3 per cent. This is emphatic proof that Co-operative Societies have played a prominent part in agricultural finance and have substantially improved the material condition of their members.

23. Miscellaneous Activities of Co-operative Societies.—Apart from the purely co-operative part of their work, several societies have exhibited a praiseworthy interest in developing the general wellbeing of the villages in which they are situated. The formation and management of schools, opening of Reading Rooms, works of village improvement have received strong support and encouragement from several Co-operative Societies. Their work during the influenza epidemic deserves special mention. In common with most other activities in the State, co-operative activities were practically at a standstill during the period. But the Managing Committee members of several societies in large towns as well as villages engaged themselves in helping the people and in distributing food and medicine. It is sad to have to state that some very prominent co-operators fell victim to the disease and that the total mortality among co-operators was nearly 3,000. Reference has already been made to the work done by Co-operative Societies in connection with the food situation.

24. Conferences.—The Registrar attended the Conference of Registrars at Simla in August last. The Departmental Conference was held in September. In October, the Eighth Mysore Provincial Co-operative Conference was held at Mysore during the Dasara season. It was opened by Mr. P. Raghavendra Rao and presided over by him. Among the visitors were the Registrars of Madras and Bombay. Seven District and 55 Taluk Conferences were also organised with the kind help of the local Revenue Officers.

25. Exhibition.—In connection with the last Dasara Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition the Department tried for the first time to make known to the public the work done by the Agricultural and Industrial Co-operative Societies in the State. A special stall was taken up and the goods made by 35 societies were exhibited. The stall attracted considerable attention and 3 gold medals, 4 silver medals, 2 bronze medals and 2 money prizes out of those awarded were won by Co-operative Societies.

26. Co-operative Bulletin.—The Mysore Co-operative Bulletin which was published for four years ceased publication two years ago. Recently arrangements have been made for reviving it. Rajakarya-prasakta Rao Bahadur M. Shama Rao, M.A., has kindly agreed to edit it and it is proposed to publish it with effect from the beginning of the next official year.

27. His Highness the Yuvaraja's Shields.—The outstanding co-operative event of this year is a system of prizes graciously instituted by His Highness the Yuvaraja so as to serve as an incentive to good work in the co-operative field. There are ten prizes one for the best Industrial Society and one for the best Agricultural Society in the State and the remaining eight for the best Credit Co-operative Society in each of the eight districts. The prize for the best Industrial Society is in the name of His Highness the Maharaja and the rest in that of His Highness the Yuvaraja. The prizes are in the form of Shields and will become the property of a society if it wins in three consecutive years. They will be awarded with effect from the next official year and the necessary rules are under preparation.
